SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT

The October term of the Supreme Judicial Court opened at South Paris on Tuesday, October 10. In reading the docket forty-three cases were placed on the trial list, twelve of them divorce cases to be heard before the court.

The first case to be heard during the session was put on Tuesday afternoon, that of Helen M. Walker vs. Frank M. Garland. It is one of the first cases assigned for the first day of this term at the May term by assignment.

This case is also one of three cases on the docket involving controversies between the parties. One is for debt, one for a difference in accounts and the other is for trespass. The trespass case was tried first.

This case was tried before the first jury. Although there were four women returned for jury duty only one was drawn on either of the juries—Mrs. E. B. York on the first jury. When this case was put on she was excused from serving and Guy D. Hemingway appointed in her place.

The story of the case as brought out by the testimony is this:

The defendant, Frank M. Garland, was a tenant on the farm owned by the plaintiff, Mrs. Helen M. Walker. The farm is situated in Brownfield and is known as the John C. Greely farm. Mr. Greely was the father of Mrs. Walker and she inherited the farm. Mr. Garland, the tenant, is a relative, and had lived in the Greely family since he was a little over a year old. He had carried on the farm since 1913, when Mr. Greely died.

Mrs. Walker did not live on the place but in Baldwin.

The question tried was brought about by the repair of the buildings on the farm. They were old and had fallen into decay and therefore needed repairing. This fact was admitted by both sides. It was also admitted there were conversations between the two on the matter, and an agreement that they should be repaired and how.

Mrs. Walker said she gave permission to Garland to cut off soft wood, pine and hemlock, and have it sawed into proper material and used in the repairs. He, however, cut off hard wood, rock maple and gray maple, and sold the same for the manufacture of handles and poles, and intended, so he testified, to use the proceeds to repair the buildings. This he did, so he testified, by permission of Mrs. Walker. She denies that she gave this permission and therefore claims a trespass and damage therefor.

When Mrs. Walker found he had cut off this lumber she ordered him off the farm, and he vacated the premises in June, 1921.

The lawyers for the plaintiff were Fred R. Dyer and W. F. Perkins, with E. E. and H. W. Hastings for defendant.

The first case ended in a disagreement of the jury.

Directly after the case of Helen M. Walker vs. Frank M. Garland for trespass being given to the jury, a second case of this domestic drama of the Greely family was staged with the action reversed—that is, in this case Frank M. Garland seeks to recover for services during the years from 1909 to 1913 of Helen M. Walker, administratrix of the estate of John C. Greely.

As has been stated in the previous case, Frank M. Garland was brought up as the son of John C. Greely and worked on the farm during his minority as any son would have done, and was given an education as any father would have given a son. When young Garland was 21 years old he went to work in Portland and married while working there. Shortly after his marriage he returned to the Greely farm with his wife, where they lived for the most part, until the death of Mr. Greely in 1913, and it is for services performed during this period that was sought.

Mr. Garland says the labor he performed was for Mr. Greely, while Mrs. Walker maintains that the relations of Mr. Greely and Mr. Garland were those of partners and that the latter received his portion of proceeds of the farm.

To prove the two contentions various facts of the family life—not all of them pleasant—were presented.

The legal talent of this second case was the same as the first. After the evidence was all in, there was a conference between the judges and the counsel, when an agreement was arrived at because of a presumption of compensation, whereby the judges directed the jury to bring in a verdict for the defendant.

An appeal was made by the attorneys of the plaintiff, Messrs. Hastings & Son.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Saturday afternoon a Ford sedan belonging to Lewiston parties turned turtle on the Rabbit road near Walker's Mills. While coming down a hill near the Howe Hill brook the car struck a rock and was thrown into the ditch and down an embankment into the brook, the car being turned bottom side up. The occupants of the car were badly shaken up but not seriously injured. The car was not badly damaged.

Sunday afternoon between five and six o'clock an automobile failed to make the turn quick enough onto the Paradise road from Broad street near the residence of Mrs. Gilbert Tuell. An electric light pole was struck and cut off. The car caught fire and was cut off and the car kept going. We could not learn who the owner or driver of the car was.

Monday morning a Ford touring car driven by a young lady from Upton ran out of the road near North Newry, and struck a tree. The occupants of the car were not hurt. The wind shield and one mud guard on the car were broken.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING

At the regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association on Monday night of last week the committee in charge, consisting of Miss Carrie Wright, Mrs. F. E. Hanson and Mr. Sherman Hanson, gave an excellent entertainment. The teachers suggested needs of their different rooms. Mrs. Alphonso Van Don Kerkhoven gave an outline of the aims and plans of the Association. The constitution was read. Suggestions for money raising were made and a food sale in the near future decided upon.

At the close of the business meeting, an informal reception was held. Miss Doris Goodnow played a violin solo and the Girls Chorus of Gould's Academy gave several selections. Readings were given by Ellen Cottrell and Mrs. Eugene Vandenberg.

Delicious refreshments of punch and assorted cake were served.

The evening was a splendid success and much credit is due the committee.

G. A. NOTES

Mid-term examinations will be given next Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. Fossett spent the week end with friends in Rumford where he taught last year.

Several members of the faculty will attend the State Teachers' Convention in Bangor next week, Thursday and Friday. In order that the teachers may reach Bangor in time for the opening meeting, school will be in session at the Academy on Saturday of this week and close on the following Tuesday for the remainder of the week.

Dr. and Mrs. Gehring entertained the faculty and the members of the Freshman class at their home on Monday evening. The pictures of Greece shown on the screen were made most interesting and vivid by Mrs. Gehring's stories of her travels in that country.

During the past week two new Hardman pianos have been added to the equipment of the school. The one installed in the William Bingham Gymnasium was most generously given by the trustees through personal contributions. The one in the music room will be the gift of the Alumni Association. It is hoped that every former student of the school will share in this gift and that he will respond promptly.

Mr. Ernest Walker has very kindly loaned a piano to the Household Arts Cottage for the remainder of the school year. The teachers and pupils who live in the Cottage are very grateful to Mr. Walker for this acquisition to their home.

The girls of the Y. W. C. A. held a very pretty and impressive "recognition service" on Thursday evening, when thirty-four new members lighted their candles of service and were received into the association. Following this service a lively social hour was enjoyed during which refreshments of sandwiches and cocoa were served. Nearly one hundred people were present including a few visitors.

The Y. W. C. A. meeting will be held at the close of school on Thursday of this week. Ruth Hastings will be the leader.

BUILDINGS OF H. A. LYON BURNED, SATURDAY

The farm buildings of H. A. Lyon on Grover Hill were burned to the ground, Saturday forenoon at about 9:30.

The fire, which had just started on the roof, was discovered by Fred Mundt who notified Mr. Lyon who was in his orchard picking apples. The telephone soon spread the news and in a short time a large crowd was on hand but it was too late to save the building, as water could not be secured in quantity enough to kill the blaze, and in a short time the house was a mass of ruins. It is thought that a spark from the chimney landed on the roof and started the blaze, and the high wind was a handicap to the fire fighters. The barn, situated across the road was not burned. By hard work on the part of the many willing hands the furnishings were practically all saved. Mr. Lyon had just put part of his apples and potatoes in the cellar, and these with a large quantity of preserves and canned goods were destroyed.

The buildings were partially covered by insurance.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to Mr. Lyon and family in their loss.

THE J. E. JONES LETTER

SHOULD NATION'S PAY THEIR DEBTS.

The United States is among the countries of the world flooded with German marks that were bought on the optimistic speculative theory that Germany would redeem its shipwrecked currency. In old Austria visitors have to carry along a "trailer" in order to transport enough of the native currency to pay their hotel bills and other expenses. Czechoslovakia may be a hard word to spell, but it is one of the very few European nations that maintains its currency at par.

The rates of foreign exchange, always had in Europe, are at the present time all shot to pieces. In the language of the United States high discounts in the rate of exchanging money represents low financial morale in the country that shaves its own paper. An individual or a corporation that would insist on deducting twenty, thirty, or even ninety cents from every account when presented for payment would be called a dead-beat, or handed some similar epithet. But we are told to be more charitable in discussing the fact that the government of the United States has borrowed eleven billions of dollars from the people of our country and turned it over to European countries that are now asking that the debts be voided. If this is done our own people will have to replace the money by some form of taxation, for the carrying on of our public affairs, and no matter how invisible this taxation system may be, or how harmless—the fact remains that Americans will have to make up the eleven billions unless the Europeans pay their honest debts. And the worst of it is that having endorsed all this European paper the Europeans are inviting us to settle the account at "the bank." Who that has endorsed notes promissory for friends has not cursed his ill-luck for just such reasons?

DEBTS RELIEVE THE PEACE

DOVES

Senators McKinley of Illinois, Spencer of Missouri, and Harris of Georgia, have recently returned from Europe, and they advocate voiding the war debts on account of the prevailing "economic distress." The question is not a party matter, as is shown by the fact that republicans and democrats are equally divided in their opinions. These Senators have simply concluded that the debts are uncollectable, and they are ready to splash red ink all over the credit side of Uncle Sam's ledger.

Theodore Burton, former Senator and now Representative in Congress from Ohio, thinks differently. He has just returned from Europe, where he went as a member of the Allied Debt Commission. He has made a personal report to President Harding, and in a public statement he takes the high ground that the cancellation of national debts "would throw doubt on national credit."

Mr. Burton may be a little late with his "doubts," but he is timely in observing that "if these debts were cancelled it would lead to an expansion of the military and naval establishments of other countries, and thereby bring a threat of war and all the waste it entails."

Evidently Mr. Burton finds Europe still itching for a fight, and the belief is rather general that a flock of European countries are in deep mourning because of the blessings of poverty that have come to them from participating in the scrap that has been entertaining the Greeks and the Turks.

Foreign securities to the amount of three and a quarter billions of dollars have been sold in the United States since 1919, and four billion dollars more have been contributed outright by Americans to relieve European distress during the past three years.

The United States is in nowhere near as big a hurry to collect its debts as the borrowers were to get the money; and it is more than probable that European charity like the soul of John Brown will keep "marching on." Chairman Madden of the House appropriations committee sees virtue in the European debts, and agrees substantially with Senator Burton. "If we did out hope that these debts would be cancelled," says Mr. Madden, "they would be encouraged to go on spending for war machinery. ... We do not want to encourage any such mistake."

THE SEA GOES DRY

Attorney General Daugherty has decided that booze and salt water will not mix, and in accordance with his opinion President Harding has declared that the ocean must be dry—at least so far as Shipping Board ships and vessels coming to our shores, are concerned.

The Eighteenth Amendment provides: "The manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the impor-

SOME SMILES

A PROLONGED COURTSHIP

The old man regarded his remaining unmarried daughter critically. "Let me see, Alice," he reflected. "Young Guythe has been calling on you regularly for six or eight months, hasn't he?"

"Yes, father," whispered Alice. "Well," continued her parent, "if he asks you to marry him when he comes tonight, tell him to see me. Understand?"

"Yes, dad," giggled Alice. "But suppose he doesn't ask me to marry him?"

"Hm," reflected papa. "In that case just tell him I want to see him." —Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Bad Advertising.

"Can't I sell you some of these pork and beans today?"

"What brand?"

"The Squeezed Brand."

"No, indeed. I saw an advertisement giving a picture of a fellow who had taken one bite of those and was wearing a grin that was positively idiotic. I don't want to take any chances on looking that way." —Retail Ledger, Philadelphia.

Why the Crowd Laughed.

Lecturer (in loud voice): "I venture to say to this crowd of people that there isn't a man in this audience to-night who has ever done anything to prevent the destruction of our vast forests!"

As he paused for breath a little man in the back row rose timidly: "Yes, I have; I killed a couple of woodpeckers once!"

He Knows.

"My husband is merely a manufacturer of waste baskets," sighed the woman with aspirations. "It seems such a prosy occupation."

"On the contrary there is really much poetry in waste baskets," replied the unappreciated bard.

That Was All.

Roberts—Jiggs did not stay long when he called on you at the office.

Robinson—No; he wanted to borrow it, and went away as soon as he got it.

"I see just a case of touch and go." —London Tit-Bits.

MORE VALUABLE THAN DIAMONDS

"What are you doing with that lump of coal?"

"I am taking it to my jeweler's to have it made over into an engagement ring."

Sweet Perfection.

"I have a perfect wife," said Lee.

"After cooking's got a crime."

And when she comes to date with me she's always there on time."

The Epilepsy.

"Would you mind turning off that electric fan, waiter?"

"Yes, sir. Two much draft, sir?"

"It isn't that, but I don't want the aroma of this cucumber I'm eating to be blown away."

At Last.

"George, dear, I've something I want to talk to you about."

"I'm glad of that, darling. As a rule you want to talk to me about something you haven't got." —Wind-sor Magazine.

Would you marry a man in order to reform him?"

"No," replied Miss Cayenne. "If I were to marry I'd want to be the head of a household and not of a reform school."

Competition.

"I see they're going to get after the home brewers."

"Don't you believe it. That's just bootlegger propaganda." —New York News.

A Dark Outlook.

He—No case, darling. You are the lamp that alone can light my existence."

She—Yes, dear, but papa doesn't think you are a good match for me.

Change Needed.

Extravagant Sam—Of course I keep a running account at my tailor's.

Irate Father—Running account? He tells me it has been standing for eighteen months.

No Long Distance Appeals.

"We're going to the seashore this summer."

"No, decided to stay at home where the money supply is close at hand."

The End of the Haystack.

"When does the haystack end?"

"The first time the wife asks for something and the husband replies that he can't afford it."

THE BARBERRY BUSH

"Here we go round the barberry bush—
Three tiny maidens, with wind-tossed hair,
Sing the old rhyme to the well-worn air—
"So early Monday morning!"
Chubby fingers intertwined,
Every tumble scoring,
Around and round they dilly go—
Eyes that shine and cheeks a-glow;
Beatie and Belle and Baby Snow—
"So early Monday morning!"

And, here we go "round our barberry bush,"
I thought, as I heard the gay little song—
Mothers and wives, our whole lives long—
Our days as well as our mornings.
Busy fingers never still,
Not a duty a-scorning;
Round and round with tireless feet,
Conquering every task we meet,
Home and children keeping sweet—
Morning after morning!

"This is the way we wash our clothes!"
They rub and wring and dampen and press
In possums, apron or dollie's dress—
"So early Monday morning!"
On they go in the queer old play
Each day's work performing;
They knead the bread, and stir the cake,
With many a pat and knowing shake—
Dearest of dear little cooks they make,
This lovely summer morning!

"This is the way we go to church,"
Soft-dimpled arms creep out of sight,
Long apron sleeves are buttoned tight—
"So early Sunday morning!"
They don their hats all trimmed with leaves,
And dandelions adorning—
Three small mimics of earthly toil
Pure little hearts without a sol!
Nothing they know of the world's turmoil
So early in life's morning!

And shall we not leave our "barberry bush!"
Each day has brought us its burden of work;
Duties and cares which we could not shirk—
Morning after morning!
Cometh now the Sabbath's rest!
Weary brains give warning
That woman needs one day in seven
To free her heart of earthly leaves,
To fit herself for God and heaven,
One holy Sabbath morning!
—Linnie Hawley Drake.

FIJIAN OF HEROIC STRAIN

Incident Proves That Savages Are Capable of Great Self-Sacrifice on Occasions.

A remarkable tale of Fijian heroism comes from the island of Vanua Levu. Chief Inoke and a native boy, aged twelve, put out to sea from the native town of Nankua and when about half a mile out their craft capsized. The boy, in a rough sea, swam for the shore to get help. The chief was old and sick and after swimming some distance went back to the overturned craft and hung on. The boy, exhausted, reached the shore and found only a blind man and a little girl in the village. The blind man essayed to rescue the chief. The little girl swam with him to guide him to the boat, and when they got there they assisted the chief toward the shore. Meanwhile the little girl swam ashore to get a boat; but while the blind man was helping the chief, the latter succumbed and sank. The blind man dived and recovered the body, finally bringing it ashore, though half-dead himself.

Hen's Odd Nesting Place.

An Australian living in New South Wales says that one of his hens had a nest 40 feet up in a pine, an old nest of the ring-billed gull. The hen used to climb up via the branches and come down in the same way. With the exception of one, all the chicks reached the earth by tumbling. The last one, No. 10, was rescued with a prawn not affixed to a pole, into which the nest, chick and all, was poked. Prior to the final act No. 10 had become proficient in walking the branches, appearing from time to time several feet from the nest and retreating to it when he was approached. Not one of the fledglings was injured by its sudden descent, but the chick foliage of the tree broke the fall.

Takes Notes From Radio.

There are many uses to which a radio outfit can be put other than to merely amuse the individual. A Brooklyn girl, who had difficulty in getting some one to dictate to her in the evening in order to assist in bringing her shorthand to the speed necessary to get credentials from a commercial school, listens in and when a lecture or address is given she takes it down to shorthand. This is excellent practice and there is much fun in transcribing the notes.

Odd Coincidence.

When Mrs. Eva Gordon went to the court house at Spokane, to meet her attorney and go over the details of her divorce suit against Harry Gordon, the lawyer who stepped forward to meet her was not the one she had engaged. The attorney, too, did not recognize her as Mrs. Eva Gordon. Investigation revealed that two Eva Gordons had filed divorce suits against two Harry Gordons.

City Street Paved With Rubber. A contract has been let to Copenhagen to a rubber company for the building of a street of India rubber. The company estimated that the road would last 50 years and that it would cost $5 a square foot. The rubber street is to be 250 yards long and it is claimed will be the longest street in the world.

Says Snapping Turtle Climbed Fence. John W. McLean of Cranwell, Conn., found a snapping turtle in his backyard when he went in to feed the chickens. He claims that the turtle climbed the 10-foot wire fence and made its entrance in that way. For there is no other method by which it could have entered. Mr. McLean says he kept the turtle.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

LARGEST SCOUT ENROLLMENT

The United States is the only country in which the boy scout organization has a definite registration system. In other countries the scout census is based upon estimates and, to some extent, such reports as can be received as to troop enrollment from various scout leaders.

The International Bureau acts as a general headquarters for the majority of the countries, and has tabulated the memberships of countries adhering to it, as follows:

Report of June 20, 1922.	Scouts.
Austria	15,000
Belgium	18,100
Brazil	2,480
Czechoslovakia	18,000
Denmark	4,814
Ecuador	2,000
Estonia	1,080
Finland	1,203
France	8,464
Greece	5,600
Great Britain and colonies	208,093
Holland	8,650
Hungary	12,840
Italy	4,000
Latvia	800
Lithuania	300
Luxembourg	900
Norway	6,300
Peru	5,000
Poland	30,000
Portugal	120
Serbia	500
Spain	20,140
Sweden	6,000
Switzerland	3,000
United States	403,152

708,030

It is a noteworthy fact that the United States leads in scouting's work of character building and citizenship training with a total of 403,152 out of a grand total of 708,030 scouts enrolled, or more than all of the other nations put together.

Latest statistics from national headquarters show that the number of scouts enrolled has reached the 425,000 mark.

SCOUTS KIND TO ANIMALS

There has been considerable comment lately as to whether or not boys still love dogs as they used to. It is a sure thing that scouts do, because, says "A Scout is Kind to Animals."

MEMORIAL TO WAR HEROES

A monument to former service men was projected on Flag day to Salt Lake City by its scouts. The monument is in the shape of a stone base for the flag pole on the central green of Liberty park. It bears a bronze tablet with the following inscription: "A memorial to those who served in the World war. Boy Scouts of America, Salt Lake Council, June 14, 1922." The octagonal base, six feet in height, supports a smaller pillar upon which the flag pole rests. The plans were donated by local architects because of their interest in the scout organization. Nichols and Ames cannot and contributed by the scouts will pay for the memorial. The formal dedication exercises were conducted entirely by the scouts, Eagle Scout Vincent Leach being master of ceremonies. Mayor Seaton, in accepting the monument for the city, said: "The boys whose generous gift he said would always be a monument to the principles of liberty for which the flag which surmounts it stands. It is the purpose of the scout council to train together these remarkable on Flag day all the scouts and to reveal in their lives an appreciation of the American flag and the theme for which it stands."

DESTROY POSTS

Scouts played a prominent part in the recent work of Salt Lake City (Utah) boys in collecting 23,000 pounds of dandelions from the lawns and parks of that city. The chamber of commerce paid a bonus of a cent a pound, and 14 truckloads of the plants gathered by the boys were hauled to the dumping grounds on the Arkansas river. For one week, after school, in the evenings or on Saturdays, the boys worked and over 200 checks, totaling $200 were paid to them.

POLICE CHIEF LEGION MAN

Guy R. Molony, Superintendent of New Orleans' "Finest," Will Call Legionnaires to Aid.

Confronted with the task of handling a crowd of 150,000 visitors to the American Legion convention in New Orleans, October 18 to 21, Police Superintendent Guy R. Molony will call his brother Legionnaires into action.

Superintendent Molony, an active Legion member, has announced that 1,000 uniformed Legionnaires will assist his police force in regulating the large crowds thronging the convention parade route and will serve as provost guards in the business district.

During a recent trip to Kansas City Superintendent Molony investigated conditions prevailing in that city during last year's American Legion convention. He discovered that city and police officials had no criticism to make concerning the way in which the 150,000 visiting ex-service men conducted themselves, and stated that Kansas City officials would welcome the opportunity to have the organization again choose Kansas City as their convention city.

BUNKS FOR THE LEGION MEN

V. A. W. Steger, Chairman of National Convention Housing Committee, Has Completed Plans.

Every man to his own taste in "bunks," says V. A. W. Steger, chairman of the housing committee of the American Legion national convention, to be held in New Orleans next October. Convention visitors will be housed in a variety of ways.

While the bulk of the crowd will choose the hotels and rooms in New Orleans homes, there will be an opportunity for a substantial percentage to remain on the Pullman cars and the steamboats and ocean liners which take them to the convention city.

Mr. Steger has obtained a hotel rate of $1.50 a day without bath and $2.50 a day with bath. More than 14,000 visitors can be housed in the Pullman cars, which will be provided with all conveniences of a modern hotel. A special arrangement with railroads will enable the convention guest to live on his Pullman car for about $2 a day, and a uniformly low rate will also prevail in rooms in New Orleans homes.

Those doughboys who prefer to return to the barracks life for five days may be quartered in New Orleans' $15,000,000 army supply base and in various halls and lodge rooms.

Reservations for rooms, Mr. Steger has announced, must be made through the visitor's American Legion state adjutant, who will confirm them with the convention housing committee.

HAVE ARMY ON SHORT NOTICE

Government Could Provide Ample Military Protection in Any Emergency, Pershing Says.

An army large enough to guard every important bridge and railway terminal, all important industries and coal mines, as well as governmental buildings, could be placed in the field on short notice by the United States government, Gen. John J. Pershing declared in a statement recently issued, telling what could be done if this country were invaded.

Eighteen regular war strength infantry divisions of reserves, composed of 600,000 men, an expanded National Guard with 500,000 men and regular army units, augmented by volunteers to approximately 175,000 men, could be made quickly available, the general said.

"The national defense act of 1920," Pershing's statement declared, "prescribed that the organized peace establishment, including the regular army, the National Guard and the organized reserves, shall include all of these divisions and other military organizations necessary to form the basis of a complete and immediate mobilization for the national emergency in the event of a national emergency declared by congress."

"The evident intent," the statement continues, "is that the system of national defense shall be definitely organized, that the military units required for service in any emergency shall be constituted in time of peace, and that each of them shall be prepared to undertake its initial mission in time to meet the requirements of the situation."

tations thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited."

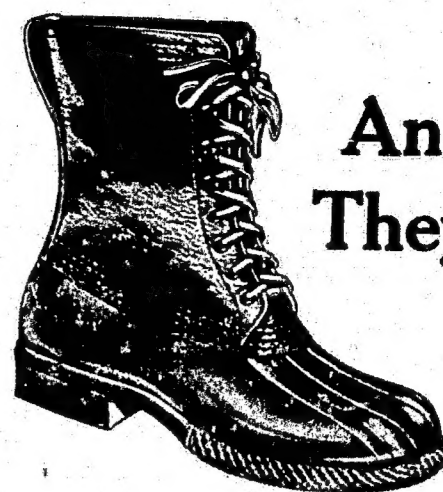

The late Chief Justice White in an opinion upholding prohibition, said: "Read it in the light ... and the subject with which the amendment dealt and the purpose which it was intended to accomplish." Now finally we have a unanimous agreement, in which the three great branches of the government—the legislative, judicial and executive—agree that "read in the light" the Eighteenth Amendment means what it means. It must be acknowledged that "this is going some," and that the crowd of official Federal converts is now wholly assembled, despite recent political events in some states which tend to indicate that many "wet" are still unconverted.

THERE ARE NO "CONGRESSMEN" There aren't? What has become of them? What should destroy Congress so quickly? These were the facetious questions that passed around in Washington a few days ago when the clerk of the House of Representatives, after a vigorous search through the musty records of his office, declared that there was no official sanction to be found anywhere for the word "Congressman."

As a parent, it must have started as a colloquialism, like "you all" in the south, and "idiot" in New England, or "erick" in the west. The constitution sanctions the use of the words "representative" and "member" as designating those persons composing the house. Frequently one sees in print reference to "senators and congressmen," which is entirely wrong, since correct usage would sanction nothing less than "congress," as meaning both bodies, or "senators and representatives." Custom may make the usage of these terms correct in time, quite as it has the word "American" as applied exclusively to the residents of the United States. When father was a boy Canadians and Mexicans used also to call themselves "Americans," but they have been forced to give up their claim, and now our northern cousins call themselves Canadians, and we call the Mexicans a number of things.

that the best part of a billion dollars was spent in aircraft construction with rather negligible results. Finally the government has instituted a suit against the Dayton Wright Airplane Company for $2,408,267, alleged overpayment on contracts. The president of the Dayton Wright concern has issued a lengthy statement showing how there cannot possibly be anything to the charge. Shipbuilders have made similar vigorous denials when accused of overcharging "a bit." ### SWARTHMORE CHAUTAUQUA IN BETHEL, NOV. 20, 21, 22

THE POPULAR OPERATIC COMPANY

The name of the musical company which is to be heard in our town on the opening night of the coming Chautauqua does what all names ought to do, but which many do not; namely it tells exactly what the company is and does. The Popular Operatic Company presents both popular and light operatic numbers in a popular way, with the appeal of a popular concert, but with all the high grade quality of an opera program. In the soprano roles will be heard Miss Augusta Bishop Witherow. The contralto of the company is Miss Winifred Wiley. Mr. Edward Donahue is the tenor. He has been over our circuits before in another company similar to this and his remarkable tenor voice caused much favorable comment wherever he appeared. Mr. Lennox Bigelow is the baritone. Miss Emily Sibley is the pianist and accompanist.

Music lovers of this and neighboring communities may well mark down Nov. 20, 21 and 22 as dates to keep open for the Chautauqua programs. A committee of citizens is arranging the details of the entire Chautauqua Festival of three full days and they have season tickets on sale at attractive prices.

CHANCELLOR GEORGE H. BRADFORD

In Chicago recently there was broadcast by radio the first Chautauqua radio program. Among the "talent" on that program were Sir Gilbert Parker of England, Lorado Taft, the Chicago sculptor, Dr. Paul M. Pearson, of Swarthmore, and many others, including Chancellor George H. Bradford, who is to lecture here on Monday evening, Nov. 20, on the Chautauqua program.

To be chosen as a participant in that first radio Chautauqua program was a unique honor and is an indication of Chancellor Bradford's exalted position among Chautauqua orators. Many of our citizens are familiar with Chancellor Bradford's ability, and look forward to every opportunity of hearing him for his message is always a soul-stirring one. Parents can do few things of more value for their children than to make it possible for them to hear the Chancellor's inspiring addresses. His lecture this year is said to be his greatest effort so far. This means a crowded house. Remember Chancellor Bradford will appear on Monday evening, Nov. 20.

MRS. ALEXANDER BRADLEY'S FIVE-YEAR-OLD DAUGHTER DANGEROUSLY ILL

Here is a little bit of true life put into a letter. Mrs. Alexander Bradley of Danbury, Conn., says: "After 14 long years trying different remedies I have at last found a good medicine—Dr. True's Elixir."

"I was nearly discouraged. I was giving the oldest girl something nearly every night, but now I keep a bottle of Dr. True's Elixir handy, and only give it occasionally. I have tried so many things but now as soon as I see signs of worms I give Dr. True's Elixir for quick relief."

"My son, 14 years of age, was always troubled with worms when small and 'Dr. True's' was unknown to me then. I always have it on hand now, as I have another small child. They even ask for more. Now please print this letter so other anxious mothers may know the good results which follow Dr. True's Elixir for children suffering with worms and constipation, as I cannot recommend it too highly."

Symptoms to watch: Constipation, offensive breath, swollen upper lip, deranged stomach, occasional pains, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, short, dry cough, grinding of the teeth, red points on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

A great deal of sickness comes from irregular bowels, a vital part of the body. At the first signs of constipation give Dr. True's Elixir—for it is the right kind—pleasant to take, with no gripping or distressing after-effects.

A well-known New Yorker writes: "While visiting in historic old Plymouth (Mass.), my family became acquainted with your Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. It does all you claim for it in aiding digestion and relieving insomnia and constipation. Please ship me six large size bottles, for mother is in need of it."

Nearly every grown-up as well as every child needs a laxative. Keep the bowels regular by using Dr. True's Elixir. 40c—60c—$1.20. Adv.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT

The case of Arthur D. Cummings vs. Hassam Paving Co. was put on Thursday morning with Alton C. Wheeler appearing for Cummings and Howard Davies of Yarmouth for the defending company.

This is a case to recover damage done to the state highway running from Norway village to Welchville, on that portion known as Fore Street. As most people in Oxford County know that part of the road was given a concrete surface some two years ago and the work was performed by the defendant company.

Mr. Cummings lives down in Oxford on the state highway running from Norway village to Welchville, on that portion known as Fore Street. As most people in Oxford County know that part of the road was given a concrete surface some two years ago and the work was performed by the defendant company.

It is the central portion of the road thus treated, so that the teams employed in conveying material for the paved portion had to travel on the outside portions. Mr. Cummings lives on the western side of the road, but owns land on both sides and there are shade trees on the eastern side and in so doing injured five big elms on that side, injury which the plaintiff claims was unnecessary, as the distance between the concrete portion and the trees was about twenty feet. The trees were "barked" on the roots and trunks, and many of the limbs on the trees have since died, and it is for this Mr. Cummings sought damage. His suit was in the sum of $250.

After this evidence was in the jury rode down to Mr. Cummings' house and viewed the trees.

The defence was that the Hassam Paving Company was constructing this highway under a contract with the state highway department, wherein they had all the rights of the highway and that the trees in question stood within these limits and could be cut down if necessary to do the work; and, furthermore, that if any damage had been done to the company had not been accused of doing it maliciously but in pursuance of its work.

After being out about two hours on this case, the jury returned a verdict for the defendant, finding in answer to special questions that the defendant company did not exceed its authority under its contract with the State Highway Commission, and that the trees in question were within the limits of the highway.

Court was not in session Friday that the judge and members of the bar could attend the funeral of the late Chief Justice William Penn Whitehouse at Augusta.

Five extra jurors were summoned Saturday morning: Percy D. Mayhew, Paris. Albert E. Dean, Paris. Norman T. Greenlaw, Norway. Harry Emery, Paris. A. A. Towne, Norway. Three of whom were sworn in: Percy D. Mayhew, Albert E. Dean and Norman T. Greenlaw.

The case put on Monday morning was one of considerable interest to South Paris people as both parties reside in that village, Theodore Thayer and Harry B. Holden. Alton C. Wheeler represented Mr. Thayer, and Walter L. Gray and Dana Williams, Mr. Holden. The action was to recover damages on a horse.

Mr. Thayer runs a meat market in South Paris, but has in times past been in the livery business, and always keeps one or more horses. Mr. Holden was in the livery business until the auto drove the horse business out, when he began to drive a public auto, meeting the demand for passengers.

As everybody knows, sometimes at certain times of the year the roads are not in condition for the use of automobiles, when horses have to be substituted. Such a morning there was in the month of February this year. Mr. Holden was at the station on this morning when the train from Portland went through the village. There he saw a traveling man who was going through to West Paris and wanted Mr. Holden to go to that village to bring him back to South Paris when he had finished his business there. This Mr. Holden agreed to do.

The roads were bad for automobile travel, and furthermore it looked like a storm, so he thought he would hire a horse with which to make the trip. He went to Mr. Thayer and hired a horse of him. It was a pretty good horse, black in color.

He made the trip, a distance of somewhere eighteen miles both ways. When Mr. Holden had gone about half way to West Paris, he discovered that the horse felt sick, yet he continued the trip. He arrived in South Paris at noon, or to be exact at 12:15, and reported that the horse was sick.

The animal was taken to Mr. Thayer's stable, and a veterinarian, Dr. C. M. Merrill, summoned. The horse was very sick, grew worse as the day advanced, and died at about 11 o'clock that night.

This action is to recover damage on the horse as Mr. Thayer claims, that Mr.

Holden did not use proper care when he found the horse was sick. Mr. Thayer valued the horse at $1000, which is the sum sued for. He thought the horse could be disposed of at forced sale for at least $600.

MR. MERCHANT

You Need the Newspaper

The newspaper of today is the most powerful medium of advertising on earth. In the old days the merchant may have thought he was a benefactor and that he was contributing his bit "as a public-spirited citizen" when he carried a two-inch space in the village paper every week in the year and generally without change of copy. Possibly he was.

But that is changed now. A new order has arrived. People read advertisements. Many find their greatest interest in looking over the advertising pages to get news that will save them money, and take it from John D. Rockefeller, the way to save your dollars is first to save your pennies.

Advertisements today are right up to the minute. They are as fresh as the news of the world or the latest baseball score. Live merchants cater to live people and they know they must not alone be up to the minute, but they must be some distance ahead. They must anticipate the wants of their customers.

And they do. Turn to the advertisements in this paper right now. Just read what the merchants are offering. Notice the invitations for you to do business with them. Notice how attractively the advertisements are set up and how inviting they are.

Do you know that some firms think so much of a style of type that they buy series of it just for their advertisements? You can never mistake B. Altman's advertisement. As soon as you see the open type you know it is Altman's advertisement without looking for the name. This is true of many firms.

Business men—that is the successful ones—know advertising pays big returns. Unsuccessful men don't advertise because they are unsuccessful. That's the answer. Look over your town right now and pick out the big firms. They're the advertisers. Advertising is the tonic that puts dividends in the bank.

Everybody reads advertisements today. Mr. Merchant, is your advertisement in this newspaper?

The Scrap Book

THAT MIGHT ACCOUNT FOR IT

Anyway, Badgered Witness Gave Pom-pouze Magistrate Something to Think About for a Moment.

An illiterate man was in the witness box, and the pompous magistrate sought to improve the occasion while emphasizing his own superiority. "What! Unable to read or write?" he said, sternly. "And with all the advantages for education that are provided by modern civilization! You have had equal opportunities with myself, for instance, but your neglect of them would quite unfit you to sit in my place. How is it that I have become a public man and a magistrate, while you lack even the rudiments of education?"

The worm turned. "Well," he replied, "I suppose it's because you wasn't so smart as me in dodging the school-attendance officer."

FRANKIE QUITE UP TO DATE

No Reason at All Why Conversation Needed to Be Guarded in the Youth's Presence.

Such a generation! There go the little flappers, innocently indifferent to the talk which they have caused. Watch the sweet barbarians, all at play, and admit that the ages have not seen their equal. As Tiny Tim didn't say, "God bless 'em, every one!"

It is, indeed, a wonderful age in which we live, an every age before was wonderful in its time, and an every age will be, thank heaven. It was Lucianus who first told of the old plowman, going ferociously over the land, and sighing for a return of the "old days."

There is a woman in this town who does not belong to the tribe of sighing plowmen. She believes that life is good, and not wicked. She is free, that is all, refusing to be held down by the old oppressions and inhibitions. She has a little boy just about old enough to talk.

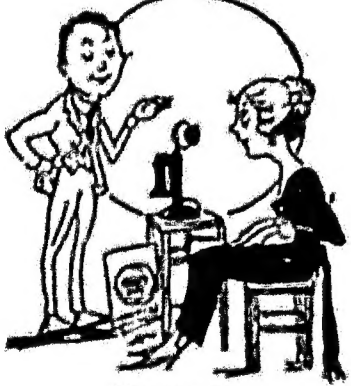

The other day, at a function she was giving, something went wrong. It was a slight thing, but enough to irritate her.

Ladies of the old school would have expressed vexation.

"This modern lady—and she is such in the best sense of the term 'gentle woman'—used a plain epithet."

"Oh, you shouldn't use such words before little Frankie," a woman friend laughed.

"Oh, he can swear," the mother said, calmly. "Ray 'D-n' for the lady, honey."—Washington Star.

GOING UP

"Talk is cheap." "Going up, I fear. Seems to be a general tendency to boost telephone rates all over the country."

The Clever Last Unlucky.

Football players are not always as lucky as they are reported to be. A golfer was disqualified at the 50th hole in the finals of the northern California professional golf tournament in Belmonte, when he picked a four-leaf clover and then brushed the line of golf with his hand. It was the only disqualification in many years to an important match, but was according to a well-known rule about removing anything from the fairway.

Probably Will Be Trouble.

An Oregon rancher says that he has found a quail scattering tiny Plymouth Rock chickens, whose mother was sitting on a nest of native prairie eggs. The quail and the hen were found in the weeds near the rancher's house. The rancher was unable to determine just what had caused the quail's change of mind and tame feel. He predicted that the "wildfowl" would find life somewhat complicated after a few weeks.

Duckling Hatched Without Eyes. Still another story of a freak duckling comes from Manitoba. A correspondent of a Canadian newspaper says that three weeks ago a duckling, without eyes, was hatched. It is now kept in a cage with other ducks, and duckling without having to be fed.

Horse Had Hump When Fed. An old horse has just died in the harnessman's stable. A hump on his back like a small hump was there and the horse was fed a hump. The cause hatched at first a hump and it was changed to a hump on the animal's back. The hump was fed to the horse.

RADIO

REGENERATIVE SET COSTLY BUT USEFUL

Methods for Converting the Simple Vacuum Tube Receiver Into That Type.

There are a great many amateurs who own and operate radio receiving sets using vacuum tube detectors who would like to have regenerative receivers. Regenerative receivers, however, are relatively expensive because of the high royalty the companies licensed to manufacture these sets pay for the use of the Armstrong patent.

The regenerative circuit is desirable in spite of these difficulties, because by converting his vacuum tube detector into a regenerative receiver, an amateur cannot only then pick up undamped or continuous-wave signals but his incoming signals will be greatly amplified. A regenerative receiver will produce for the same incoming signal a much stronger response in the headphones than a non-regenerative receiver in connection with a one-stage amplifier. Then, too, the addition of the amplifier necessitates extra tubes, amplifying transformers, etc., as a first cost and more power to operate as a maintenance cost.

The simple vacuum tube receiver using a tuning coil only for varying wave length can be recommended as length, a better circuit arrangement can be had for regeneration. Figure J shows the circuit connected for regeneration. This is also the ultra-audion circuit. By the use of the ultra-audion circuit the simple loose coupler can also be converted into a regenerative circuit with a vacuum tube.

One of the best methods for converting a loose coupler into a regenerative circuit receiver, provided the primary of the loose coupler is equipped with two slides, is shown in Figure L. Here the primary of the loose coupler is used not only as a part of the antenna oscillating circuit, but also as the plate inductance coil for feeding energy back to the grid circuit from the plate circuit.

The best method of adapting a loose coupler to a regenerative circuit arrangement is shown in Figure M. The primary of the loose coupler is used for tuning as in a single circuit tuner employing a tuning coil. The secondary of the tuning coil is not connected in the grid circuit as it normally is, but is in the plate circuit.

By connecting the secondary in the plate circuit, the amount of inductance in the plate circuit can be varied and the coupling of the plate shown in Figure I, to form a regenerative circuit. When the two-point switch is on contact No. 1, the set is non-regenerative. Turning the switch to point No. 2 makes the set regenerative. The circuit arrangement for regenerative is known as the ultra-audion circuit.

Fig. N

type and close adjustment of the filament current and plate potentials is necessary to avoid distortion. When an ultra-audion receiver is used in conjunction with the tuning coil for varying the wave circuit back to the antenna and the grid circuit can be controlled. This will allow any desired result in regenerating that can be used to obtain excellent results.

For those who wish to retain the selective tuning properties of a loose coupler, the feed back arrangement shown in Figure N is called a "tickler." It is connected in the plate circuit and used to feed back the plate circuit energy into the grid circuit. The tickler coil is similar in physical dimensions to the secondary of the loose coupler though it need have only approximately 75 per cent as many turns.

It should be mounted on rods to slide back and forth inside of the primary of the loose coupler, entering the primary from the opposite side as does the loose coupler; that is, a loose coupler equipped with two secondaries, one sliding in one side of the primary, and the other sliding in the other side of the primary. It is desirable to have more taps on the tickler coil than there usually are on the secondary so as to permit a closer adjustment of the plate circuit inductance.

Radio Fans Blamed in Paris. The opening of the station at Eiffel tower for broadcasting purposes brought much joy to the continent and England, but not to the French department of communications which controls the wire systems there. In Paris alone it is reported that more than 200 telephone receivers are "ticked" every day and never returned. The radio fans are blamed.

EVER HAVE IT?

If You Have, the Statement of This Bethel Citizen Will Interest You.

Ever have "low-down" pain in the back?

In the "small," right over the hips? That's the home of backache. If it's caused by weak kidneys, Use Doan's Kidney Pills.

Bethel people testify to their worth. Ask your neighbor!

A. E. Copeland, farmer, and hay contractor, Chapman St., Bethel, says: "My kidneys have often given me trouble, especially when travelling on the road selling goods. I blame the change of water and exposure for my trouble. I was so bad with lumbago, I couldn't get straightened once I was seated and my kidneys didn't act regularly. At times the secretions passed to frequently, then again were scanty. I went to Bosserman's Drug Store and got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. I used Doan's until the ailments became corrected. I can recommend this remedy to anyone in need of a good kidney medicine." Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Copeland had. ## American Farm Bureau

A Traveling Book Wagon Sent Out From Elkhart (Ind.) Public Library to Carry Books to the Farm Families—It is One of the Six Such Wheel Libraries in the State.

There are some few things that are denied the farmer's family, simply because he lives out in the country and gets his mail out of a R. F. D. mail box, rather than from a uniformed postman.

One of the most lamentable of these is the public library. And the public library is perhaps one of the things that the boy and girl on the farm need more than anything else. The public library commission of Indiana is trying to take their libraries into the country and have fitted up six "traveling libraries" which travel through the country with an assortment of books for farm folk. The first of these wagons was put into operation at Plainfield in 1915. Since that time five others have been gun to take the books from the town libraries into the country. Thirteen counties in the state are covered by library systems with stations established in local communities of the country. In all there are 800 of the 1,000 township units served from the town centers. This service covers more than two-thirds of the population of the state and one-third of the purely rural population.

While Indiana has done much to develop the traveling library system and to improve its service it cannot claim credit for being first to get the idea. Rural delivery service from town libraries started in Hagerstown, Md., where the book wagons have been serving Washington county for 20 years.

TOBACCO RAISERS IN FRONT RANKS AGAIN

Co-Operative Marketing of Crop Pays Better Than Any Other Method Tried.

At the close of the first year's activities of the Burley tobacco growers in Kentucky, there is little doubt in the minds of tobacco growers in the state that the co-operative marketing of their crop pays them better than any other method they have ever tried. This co-operative association has done more than it claimed by actually obtaining prices more than double those of 1921, and by bringing prosperity to 55,000 growers of Burley tobacco, who were worse than bankrupt just a year ago. The splendid record of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative association and these special achievements have placed the association in the front rank among American co-operative marketing organizations.

The American Farm Bureau federation participated in the attempt of the tobacco growers of the South to organize the marketing of tobacco co-operatively. The Kentucky farm bureau was host to a conference in Louisville on March 20, 1921, at which more than 200 tobacco growers, representing ten states, endorsed the formation of a national co-operative marketing association by federating the existing exchanges. The Burley Tobacco Growers' association is leading in co-ordinating other state and local associations with the national movement.

The Kentucky farmer's fight for good prices for his annual crop of 200,000,000 of Burley tobacco has been one of ups and downs. The 1920 crop brought him the highest price he has ever received for his tobacco, but the 1921 crop which it cost 18 cents a pound to grow, was sold at an average of 14 1/2 cents.

By the first of this year the Burley Tobacco Growers' association had secured a pledge to receive 85 per cent of the crop and 117 warehouses in Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Kentucky, for its exclusive use. The war finance corporation and banks in interested districts had pledged almost $5,000,000 in credit.

On January 20, the warehouses were opened for the receipt of the pledged tobacco. It was graded upon delivery by the growers, and a check for an estimated value of 40 per cent of the worth of the crop advanced to the growers. The farmers have signed up for five years.

During the trail for co-operative marketing in West Virginia, the tobacco growers of the counties around Huntington are just now organizing under the California or commodity plan, with the Burley Tobacco Growers' co-operative association.

The results of the campaign, which is now under way, will be watched with considerable interest by farmers throughout the state, offering as it does, an opportunity for them to observe the operation of an association including a whole industry, operated entirely by farmers.

James C. Stone of Lexington, president of the association, made this the message of his address to a large gathering of growers at Hurricane, June 17.

"This is our association," he said. "We have associated ourselves together to do a certain thing, that is, to market our tobacco in an orderly fashion. We will get more money, it is

Looking In on Congress From the House Gallery

WHAT THE HOUSE IS LIKE

By CONGRESSMAN GUY U. HARDY

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

When I was a boy I heard a story of three blind men who were taken to "see" an elephant. They were led up to the animal and each felt the first part he came in contact with and went away. In describing it afterward one of the blind men said that an elephant was like a rope, he having felt the tail; another said it was more like a palm leaf fan, he having felt its ear; and the third said it did not resemble either but was a big flat object something like a stone wall covered with a leathery skin with some hair on it. Each was speaking from his own point of view and telling only of what he had seen—or rather felt.

It is that way with many things in life. We see only a very small part, yet having seen that, we think that we are competent to judge, describe and criticize.

An hour or two in the gallery would certainly give one a very loquacious view of congress. Yet many come, look on for a few moments and go away to tell of congress as they have seen it. A good deal as the blind men told of the elephant and with fully as much accuracy.

If you were a casual caller in the gallery you might find the house full of members, or only half full, or even with only a few dozen present. You might find it doing routine business and as quiet and placid as a summer calm; or excited to fever heat by a partisan discussion between party leaders, or in a storm of agitation over a question of personal privilege or the exercise of personal rights. The house has its varying moods, as human beings have. Sometimes it works along doing business rapidly and as smoothly as clock work. And sometimes everything seems to be on edge and everybody on his nerves, when one could hardly get an amendment through to dot an "i" or cross a "y" without a fight and a roll call.

Cannot Always Be on the Floor. Members need not sit on the floor all the time. They have much to do besides. Much of the business of congress is transacted in the committees. The major committees are composed of from 21 to 35 members each. Some of the committee meetings are as important and formal as the meeting of a state senate and with about equal membership. Committees are frequently meeting while the house is in session. There is also much work to be done and members take advantage of every lull in proceedings to catch up with their office work. There is always departmental work to be taken care of, but members as a rule do not go down town in the afternoon when the house is in session. Most members stay within reach of the roll call signals.

Whether your member is on the floor or not, you may depend upon it that he knows pretty well what is going on and can easily be reached when his presence is required. The greatest safeguard is thrown about legislation to keep anyone from putting something over. Much is done by unanimous consent when a single member can object and stop or stay proceedings. A member may at any time question the presence of a quorum and if the speaker does not find a quorum present by actual count the roll is called. Signal bells ring in the corridors, restaurant and house office building so that members may appear and answer to their names. When over a member is fearful that something will be done which he doesn't want done except by consideration of the whole house, he can raise the question of a quorum and a quorum must be secured before business is further considered.

A quorum in the house consists of a majority of its membership. There are 435 members when all are alive and there are no vacancies—although there are often two or three vacancies on account of death or resignation. So it usually requires 217 or 218 members to make a quorum. When the house is doing business as the committee of the whole 100 members make a quorum.

Reasons for Demanding a Quorum. The point of no quorum is raised often because a member wants a full attendance when the question before the house is considered. It is raised sometimes because some one present wants a good audience for an important speech. It is raised occasionally merely in order to delay the game and is resorted to by the minority to use up the time and postpone or defeat legislation that cannot be defeated by a majority vote. It is frequently used when a filibuster is in progress, and sometimes the roll is called six or eight times a day. As it requires 93 or 100 minutes to call the roll it can be seen how a few roll calls will block the business of the day.

Occasionally the point of no quorum will be raised out of spite. A member may desire some time to speak and those in charge of the time may feel that they have none at their disposal or for some reason do not wish to yield the gentleman time. The gentleman with a grievance may conclude that he will block the business of the house for a time by causing a roll call. I have seen a member state frankly on the floor that if he cannot get the time desired he will feel it his duty to raise the question of a quorum. Some times the gentleman in control of the time will give in and yield the time desired, and sometimes he will call the other gentleman's bluff. These incidents do not occur very often.

Once in a while a little filibuster is resorted to by the minority or by an obstreperous member who wants to force consideration of some special matter. Then the roll calls come thick and fast. One day the committee on rules tried to get a rule adopted, giving four hours for debate on a certain bill. The minority took a notion to block the game and it took a day and a half of roll calls to get the rule passed.

Some bills are passed by the majority of those present without a roll call. But any member can always demand a quorum and if a quorum is not present a roll call on the bill automatically follows. And even if a quorum is present, twenty per cent of those present can always demand and secure a roll call on any proposition.

Too Much Talking of Course. There is much unnecessary talking in the house. Nobody realizes that so much as those who have to be present and listen to much of it. The same thing is true wherever men and women congregate—especially where they meet to consider matters of public concern. As a reporter I have sat up past midnight listening to rambling, unnecessary talk over some trivial matter at a small town council meeting where only eight or nine members had to agree on a policy.

Some freedom must be given to those who want to talk. Some opportunity must be given for all sides to be heard. It requires consideration and explanation and talk sometimes to get many minds to look at the subject in the same way.

There is too much unnecessary talk in the house, but I do not see how it could be eliminated. Who is to say what talk may be made and what talk shall not be made? Who is so wise that he may be set up as a censor?

It is not so bad in the house as in the senate. In the senate there is no limit on debate. In the house debate is always limited, usually to one or two hours, occasionally to four hours, and perhaps twice in recent years to 12 hours on very important measures. Congress is often criticized for being slow in doing business. Of course it is slow. It is made up of human beings of many minds. They come from all parts of a great country stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The representatives represent peoples and communities as diversified and as far apart in thoughts and interests as they are in distance. It requires time for these representatives of these various minds and interests to weigh and consider and amend and whip into shape and finally agree upon proposed legislation that is to be written for a hundred and ten millions of people and may run for all time. It necessarily takes time for a majority of 435 members to be brought to see things alike.

This is one of the necessary results of a republican form of government. It is not so in an autocracy. It is not so in Russia. There you get quick action. By a decree from the autocrats the lands are confiscated. By a decree anything can be done quickly. But by parliamentary procedure it takes time for just and due consideration.

But after all congress is not so slow as compared with other governing bodies in a republic. Consider your own city council, your own board of county commissioners, your own state legislature. Who has not tried for years and years to get a certain street light placed, a street crossing fixed up, a city street cut through, a city park established, the city streets paved, a country road defined or a bridge built or this or that law amended, changed, repealed or passed? Let that individual who has never seen these long delays in getting worthy propositions put through the governing body at home where every member knows the conditions like a book, throw the first rock at congress.

Requirements for Members. The Constitution provides that a representative must have attained the age of twenty-five, have been a citizen of the United States for seven years and shall be an inhabitant of the state in which he is elected. There is no law specifying that a representative must be a resident of the district he represents, although it is very unusual for a district to elect a representative residing in another district. It is done occasionally in New York City. A senator must be thirty years of age, at least also years a citizen of the country and an inhabitant of the state electing him.

IT HAPPENED IN NEW ENGLAND

News of General Interest From the Six States

The annual friendship social, under the auspices of the Faithful Workers of the King's Daughters, Arlington, Mass., was held in the parish parlors of the New Jerusalem church. The guests ranged in age from 70 to 90, and included a number of well-known people of the town.

A temporary injunction restraining the three selectmen of Harpswell, Me., from proceeding further on plans for a bridge between Orrs and Balleys islands has been issued by Associate Justice Lure B. Deasy of supreme judicial court. Cause for denial of petition for a permanent injunction will be given a hearing in November.

Chief of Police Irving S. Watts, of Portland, announced that starting Nov. 1, the curfew law will be enforced rigidly in Portland. This action follows the recent appearance in court of a large number of juvenile cases and the presence on the street late at night of children of both sexes, police officials said.

Construction has been started by the government on a motor road to the summit of Cadillac mountain, Me., formerly Green mountain, in Lafayette National Park, the highest point on the Atlantic coast. The construction now contemplated will cover over 4000 feet in length, bringing the road to an elevation of 519 feet above sea level.

Portland is again to be represented in the United States naval reserve. Reorganization of the old unit of this force is in progress, and 16 men have been signed as a nucleus for a division of 30 members. Lt. Maurice B. Durgin, senior officer of the old reserve, is to command the new unit, and other officers are Lt. S. T. Marks, A. L. King and Thomas A. Lee.

Out of a three-cornered contest, the first in 47 years for the nomination for governors of Rhode Island in a Republican state convention, Lt. Gov. Harold J. Gross emerged a victor. On the second ballot he received a majority over Congressman Ambrose Kennedy and Gov. Elmer J. San Souci. Former Gov. R. Livingston Beekman of Newport was nominated for United States senator.

Loving her as though she were his own little granddaughter, Willard W. Prentice of Prentice Corner, Northbridge, Mass., a farmer, bequeathed his entire estate to Telmore M. Fuller, 15 years old, thus making her the richest little girl in Northbridge. His estate amounts to $75,000 or $100,000. Since she was a baby Telmore lived in the Prentice home. Her grandmother, Mrs. Telmore Fuller, was the housekeeper there.

Another fatality of the deer hunting season became known with the arrest of Charles A. Hoak of Harrisburg, Pa., for the accidental shooting of Dr. Lee H. B. Maynard of Philadelphia in the woods near Spaw Pan lake, Maine. Hoak waived examination on a charge of negligence, and was held in jail for appearance at the next term of court. Both men were members of a hunting party of Pennsylvanians. Hoak, who had seen one deer, mistook Dr. Maynard for another animal and fired. The bullet struck the physician in the neck, causing instant death.

Edward P. Tuttle, vice-president of the National Association of Credit Men, speaking at the monthly dinner of the Boston association, urged co-operation of the membership with the efforts of officers and members of the Boston Bar Association to purge the bar of lawyers who show the way to defraud legitimate business men out of large sums of money through bankruptcy. In support of his contention he cited a case in an adjoining state where a retail shoe dealer, after obtaining $20,000 worth of shoes, had the goods conveyed to a warehouse in another state.

Gov. Channing H. Cox of Massachusetts has issued a statement to the people of Massachusetts, urging them to use larger quantities of locally grown farm products. "It has been brought to my attention," he says, "that some organizations in western states are making a special attempt this year to place their agricultural products in eastern markets. Recently the mayors of many Massachusetts cities were requested to urge the public to purchase in large quantities for storage potatoes raised in remote places instead of using those grown locally. However well intentioned the efforts of our western friends may be from their own point of view, their proposal so vitally concerns our own Massachusetts citizens that the mayors who refused to support such a program are to be commended."

The will of Mrs. Alice Tobey Jones of Wareham, Mass., received for filing in the Plymouth county registry of probate, disposes of an estate estimated at $3,000,000. Eventually nearly $1,000,000 will go to the Blue-Wee Home Association, Inc., of New York; more than $200,000 will go to the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals; and a similar amount will transform the Tobey home into a hospital. Most of the estate at present, however, will be devoted to bequests in trust.

She was rescued from drowning in the Sackett river into which she fell yesterday while under the influence of liquor, the police say.

Mrs. Isabelle Hall of Squantum village, Quincy, Mass., is the first woman in New England, and perhaps in the country, to take advantage of the new law which permits her to petition for the restoration of her citizenship, lost when she married an alien. Her petition has been filed in the federal court in Boston. She was born in Quincy, the daughter of William Fenton.

Rhode Island Democrats at their state convention in Providence nominated for Governor William S. Flynn, Providence attorney and Democratic floor leader in the State House of Representatives. Mr. Flynn was chosen on the first ballot with a lead of 17 votes over his nearest opponent, Judge George T. Brown of Providence, who had been endorsed by the party's committee on nominations.

The American College of Surgeons, made up of more than 2000 of the foremost surgeons in this country, will meet in Boston from Oct. 23 to Oct. 27, to discuss recent advances in the practice of surgery, and especially to study the work of Boston surgeons and hospitals. This college is not a college in the sense of a school with classrooms, students and professors, but an organization of highly trained men, the leaders in their profession, devoted to the advancement of surgery for the public welfare. It is to the medical profession of this country what the Royal College of Surgeons is to that of Great Britain.

Again, for the third season in succession, has the fate that controls the spud been unkind to Aroostook, garden county of Maine and land long accustomed to wallowing in milk and honey from the profits of the potato. The crop is small and yet the price is low, for in most other parts of the United States the yield is large, so that the supply in the great markets is likely to be at least equal to the demand. Along in September the government statisticians estimated Aroostook's crop, based on indications as of Sept. 1, at about 22,650,000 bushels; but now, with the crop nearly all harvested, local potato experts say that 18,500,000 bushels is nearer the fact.

Fred C. Howe of New York, secretary of the conference for progressive political action, which seeks to bring about political co-operation between farmer and labor voters, is scouting in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. He will report on conditions to a meeting of the national committee of the organization in Washington soon, and the committee will decide to what extent it will attempt to participate in the campaigns in those states.
